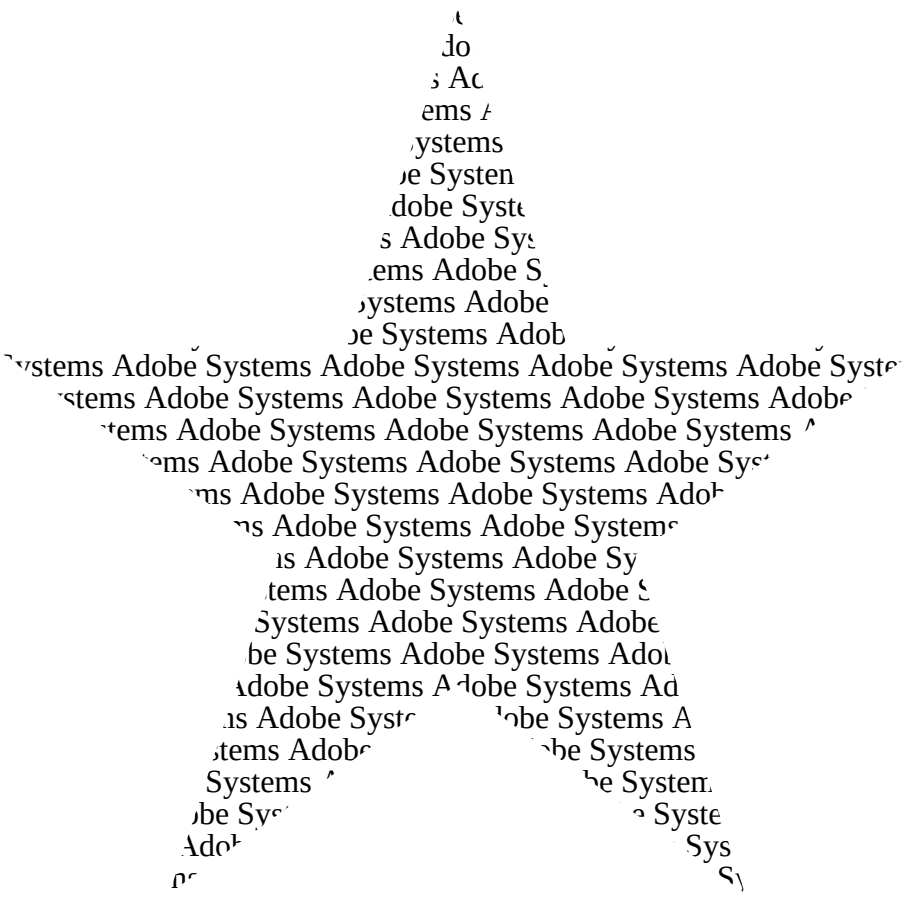
Arbitrary Clipping of Text and Graphics


In POSTSCRIPT, the user can specify arbitrary clipping boundries for text and graphics. POSTSCRIPT can crop any text, graphic, or scanned image to a specified clipping region. The following example illustrates clipping a block of text with the graphic shape of a five-pointed star.