

Introduction

CommandMon allows repeated execution of a UNIX command. It gives you a visual indication each time the command is executed and lets you quickly disable the command if you choose. It also installs itself in the services menu for quick access. It was written to allow you to monitor the output of UNIX commands such as ls, ps, vm_stat, etc. Although any UNIX command will work, some may not give you the desired results (vi for example).