1.2 requirements

This program requires kickstart 2.04+ and Reqtools.library.

1.3 spreading

OFL is FREEWARE and may be distributed freely, provided that no change is made to the program and its documentation, that the package is distributed in its complete form, and that no profit is made.

Public Domain distributors, BBS and associations can't distribute or include this program in their collections without my written consent. The fees charged should never exceed those of the Fred Fish collection (AmigaLibDisks) or the Club Amiga Montreal (CAM).

1.5 using

Using this program is extremely easy.

By selecting the library you wish to consult, you will be presented with a list of its functions. Just clic on the one you're interested in, and a requester containing the following information will appear

- the function's name
- a short summary of what it does
- its offset
- the structures and registers it uses

Naturally enough, the information provided is not comprehensive; OFL is no replacement to the autodocs . Its main aim is to provide you with the minimum information needed and spare you hours of tedious research through tons of documentation . For more details, you will have to go through the autodocs or the Rom Kernal Reference Manuals.

You may iconify and quit the program using the menu or the keyboard short-cuts.
