November 27, 1991 - San Francisco, CA - Simple INIT makes new Quadras™ compatible with all Macintosh software, including Microsoft Word 4.0, Excel 3.0, and PageMaker 4.0. The Compatibility INIT even works with desk accessories like DiskTools 3.0 and dCAD Calc3A.

Alysis Software Corporation released today v. 2.2 of The Compatibility INIT, an add-in for Apple's new Macintosh Quadra™ 700 and Quadra™ 900 computers which makes them completely and transparently compatible with software that cannot currently run with the Quadra's 68040 cache turned on.

The Compatibility INIT works by recognizing incompatible software as it is launched and toggling the cache on-the-fly to conveniently eliminate incompatibilities and minimize performance sacrifices.

Unlike the cache control panel that is currently shipped with the Quadras, Alysis' Compatibility INIT is fully automatic. It does not require users to reboot to change the cache settings. In fact, users of the Compatibility INIT can simply execute previously incompatible applications without calling up the control panel at all.

The Compatibility INIT contains a built-in list of applications which were previously incompatible with the Quadra. Users can update the list through a standard dialog box accessible from the control panel.

The Compatibility INIT will be licensed to corporate customers and is distributed free via information services for single Quadra owners. The Compatibility INIT cannot be duplicated or distributed for commercial purposes unless licensed from Alysis.

Alysis Software Corporation also makes SuperDisk!, the fastest hard-disk expansion and network acceleration software available.

The Compatibility INIT from Alysis Software is now shipping. Companies wishing to license or distribute the INIT should contact Alysis at
