

TreasureMap is a collection of information about offshore ship wrecks that are near to our beaches.

TreasureMap was written, illustrated & edited with the beachcomber in mind.

Who is a beachcomber? Anyone who has ever walked on a beach. Have you ever walked on a beach and not looked down? Not very likely. We all look for something. It may be for sea shells, sharks teeth, driftwood or anything. But the point is; we all look for something.

If you were out looking for shark's teeth, would you pass by a silver or gold coin without picking it up? Not very likely.

Hurricanes and strong thunder storms are what churn up the oceans' bottoms. As unpleasant and unwanted as these storms may be; they do bring the seas' bottom to the surface. And with this bottom upturn comes the treasures they've kept locked on the ocean floors.

These hidden treasures are now laid upon our beaches (or soon will be) and under our very feet. They don't yell up to us and say, 'Here I am', and they don't always lie glimmering in the sand. Treasure is where you find it! Treasure Map will tell you about offshore wrecks (Long. & Lat. coordinates), about possible treasure sites and about treasures found.

TreasureMap vs.1.0 covers the Gulf of Mexico, from Texas to Florida. Also included is information on the Spanish Fleet of 1715 that was lost during a hurricane off Florida's east coast.

If you would like a complete copy of TreasureMap vs. 1.0., then send only $7 to Roger Jordan. 5800 Univ. Blvd. W. #525, Jacksonville, FL., 32216.
