

Use Scan File

After scanning a drive or volume, it is possible to save the results of the scan in a file. This makes it possible to restart Data Rescue and recover other files from the scanned drive or volume without having to repeat the entire scan process. If you have such a saved scan file you wish to use, select this option, and select the originally scanned drive or volume, then click Start. When you are prompted for the scan file, navigate to the location where you saved it, and choose that file.
