

Print Dialog Box

The dialog provides a text input line to allow a title to be entered. This title will appear at the top of the printed output. The maximum number of characters, including spaces etc. is 30.

In addition the following buttons appear.

he words are printed as they are spelled.

he words are printed coded in symbols with a key to allow them to be decoded as shown below. The coded printout puts extra space between the rows of words. This extra space allows the decoded word to be written below the coded one.

he words are printed with the letters scrambled.

In all cases the search is printed normally.

In all printing operations the program tries, where possible, to include the search and words on one single sheet of paper.
