This shows the standard file selector to allow selection and loading into memory of a previously saved word list or compiled search.

Save

This shows the standard file selector to allow saving of the current word list or compiled search.

If no search exists then the list of words are saved on their own or else the compiled search and words are saved.

The desktop icon displayed for these files shows whether they are lists of words or compiled searches.

ave As

Re-save the file with a different name.

Export

This allows the words and search to be exported in ASCII text format for inserting into your favourite word processor. The words are formatted with spaces such that they will fit neatly in rows across an A4 size page set up as follows:-

left side margin

= 0.5 inch

right side margin

= 0.5 inch

Font = Courier 12pt

Page Setup

Shows the standard Page Set-up dialog box.

Print Words/Search

This allows the words and search to be printed. If no search exists then the words alone are printed.

A dialog box appears which allows the style of printout to be chosen.

Print Cheat Sheet

This allows the words and search to be printed with directions on where to find the words in the search.

Quit

This quits the program. If a list of words or search is unsaved then the opportunity to save them is given before quitting.
