Try Word Search Dialog Box

This dialog box was not intended to be part of the finished program. It was used by me to make sure that the program was doing what it was supposed to do. I decided, however, to leave it in the finished program because it was fun to try to find the words especially when a click of a button got you out of a no find situation!

licking on this button reveals the current word in the search. The button name changes to 'Hide Word' ready for the next button click. Clicking on 'Hide Word' hides the revealed word and makes the current word the next word in the list.

licking on these buttons shows the previous or next word in the list.

licking on this button reveals all of the words in the search. Clicking anywhere or pressing any key hides all the words again.
