

"Indian Summer", produced by Fiasco Films is a documentary on Indian motorcycles. A promotional ProViewer, available on the ProView CD-ROM, was created as a direct marketing tool to sell video cassette copies of the documentary.

Each page repeats "thumbnail" pictures representing the contents of the demo, are used as buttons to link to the pages together. In addition, each page offers a QuickTime™ movie clip from that section of the video.

The action page which concludes the demo, prints an order form for customers to purchase the video directly.