

Appendix A: The MacPattern Package

The distribution package consists of the following four files:

MacPattern - The MacPattern application

Help Data - The on-line help file

MacPattern Manual - This documentation

ReadMe First - Information about latest version

Additionally, MacPattern creates additional file types during execution, such as database index files or preferences files. However, these files can be easily recreated and are therefore not part of this package and do not need to be passed on.