Tool Palette

Clicking on the question mark button while holding down the Option key displays a graphic labelling the parts of HTML.edit's document window.

Finally, the rightmost button is the Preview button, which loads the current document into your favorite WWW browser.
