

About WPA

The WPA Film Library, a wholly owned subsidiary of Maljack Productions, Inc., is among the world's largest film and video archives, holding rights and original materials to over one million individual moving-image sequences. Images from the WPA Film Library have appeared in a variety of multimedia projects, distributed and developed by Voyager, C-Cube, Knowledge Industries, Software Sorcery, Digital F/X, Commodore CDTV, Access Softek, and National Geographic.

Over 25 different footage archives are held within the WPA Film Library, including BRITISH PATHE NEWS & PICTORIALS (historical material from 1896 to 1970), WISH YOU WERE HERE (contemporary geographical material, worldwide), HULLABALOO (rock and roll 1964-1966), COLORSTOCK (color Americana from 1940-1965), and MEDIA ACCESS (contemporary materials of sports, the West, and domesticity). All materials housed in the archives are the original camera elements, sourced on 35mm and 16mm film, one-inch video, and BetaSP.
