

Preferences

257522_PixelRule.tiff ↗

Directory for menu data

Most of GISO's menu's are loaded from files via the NXStringTable class. If GISO is saved somewhere that you can't write and you want to Save Configurations this preference will cause GISO to move a copy of the menus to an directory of your choice and use those in the future.

Directory for temp files

GISO creates temporary output files in this directory. It uses /tmp as the default but you can change it here.

Play sounds automatically after conversion?

Pretty clear... should GISO always attempt to play the sounds that result from any conversion? This preference and the next one are not mutually exclusive.

Convert sound automatically after open?

Should GISO automatically convert sounds after opening them. The preference affects sounds opened via the Sound->Open... menu item and double clicked files. This preference and the previous one are not mutually exclusive.