(const char *)comparisonFormat

Returns a character string containing an Objective C type encoding describing data elements compared by the receiver.

setComparisonFormat:(const char *)format

Records a character string containing an Objective C type encoding describing data elements compared by the receiver. Returns self.