

Running the program in the debugger;↵Running the program in the debugger

arrow.eps ↵ Click the continue button to continue from where you left off.

Or

arrow.eps ↵ Click the run button to start the program over.

The run button starts you program from the beginning. Typically, you only use the run button to start the program for the first time. If you've interrupted the program or hit a breakpoint and you want to continue executing from that point, use the continue button.
