TEXT,C,70

This is just some really inane text about scrolling.

Pay no attention to it, it's ridiculous.

I thought I told you not to pay any attention. So why are you reading this, anyway?

I think I'll probably die of boredom writing this stuff, but then that would probably be doing the world a lot of good--one more burnt-out programmer bites the dust, huh?

The neatest thing is when the text scrolls back up, don't you agree?

SCROLL.BIN can do that too.

And do I make you register before you get the doc? No!

Well....sorta. You gotta send money to get the source and any updates if you want them, and if you use the program it would be nice to send money anyway, at least for me. And just think, you're financing more of this inane crap. Plus if I get really ambitious, I'll write a routine for scrolling up and down using inkey for PgUp/Dn, up/dnarrow, etc. and send it to those who register (with the better docs, of course). I guess I should stop before I get into the "chain letter" syndrome, threatening bad bad luck to those who don't register. (Strange things do happen, tho <grin>).

This is really ridiculous, a rolling commercial.
