

Sheet1

MV,C,5	MV2,C,N1,C,39		N2,C,39
	Burn	(Game 7)	Forgacs
D2D4	d4	The favorite of those who like complex	positions. It is the second most
D7D5	d5	Rarely seen nowadays but nevertheless	very playable and still very much alive
C2C4	c4	The Queen's Gambit. The best known and	most analyzed gambit in Chess.
E7E6	e6	The Orthodox Defense. The major alter-	native is the Slav Defense (2....c6).
B1C3	Nc3	Of course. It prepares for e4.
G8F6	Nf6	Mainline. It prevents e4.
C1G5	Bg5	Mainline, although 4.cxd5 is a major	and popular alternate known as the
B8D7	Nbd7	The mainline continues with 4....Be7	but this is a well-known alternate.
E2E3	e3	A good move now that the Bishop is out	there in play. It also defends the c4
C7C6	c6	Mainline. It shores up the pawn at d5,	activates the Queen and readies b5.
G1F3	Nf3	Known today as the Cambridge Springs	Variation. The alternative is 6.Bd3.
D8A5	Qa5	Un-pins the Knight at f6, pins the	Knight at c3, shores up the pawn at d5
F3D2	Nd2	One of two choices (the other is cxd5).	This is the underlying theme of the F6E4	Ne4?!	A new move. Usual here is 7....dxc4.	7...Bb4 was later seen in the game
D2E4	Ndx4	The other Knight must stay where it is	to control the squares a4 and b5.
D5E4	dx4	With pressure on the exposed Bishop.
G5H4	Bh4	Prudent.
E6E5	e5	The real idea behind Forgacs' new move.
F1E2	Be2	Not being too sure of Black's intent,	White prepares to castle; which would
F7F5	f5	Defends the pawn and indirectly stifles	the Knight which now has no place to go
E1G1C	O-O	Safety first.
G7G6	g6	Rather pointless.
C4C5	c5	A very subtle and clever move that sets	up a coming cruncher.
F8G7	Bg7
D1B3	Qn3!	Surprise! Threatens 14.Qe6+!! Note that	the King has only one open square (f8)
D7F8	Nf8	Prevents 14.Qe6+ and opens the d7	square for the King.
E2C4	Bc4	More firepower.
A5C7	Qc7	Falling back to fortify the defense.
D4D5	d5	Nasty!
H7H6	h6	Preparing to shut off the Bishop with	g5.
D5D6	d6	Nastier!
C7D7	Qd7
H4E7	Be7
F8E6	Ne6	Too little, too late.
C3B5	Nb5!	Black resigns. Threats are everywhere	and Black has no way out.

Sheet1

N3,C,39

Ostend, 1906

popular opening in Chess.

and kicking. The general, non-committal

N4,C,39

1...Nf6 usually comes first here.

Black may of course, accept the gambit with 2....dxc4 (which has been declared

Exchange Variation.

A rare choice here would be 4....c5.

pawn and activates the King Bishop.

Marshall and Fine were fond of 5....Bb4 which is known today as the Manhattan and indirectly threatens the Bishop beyond the pawn.

Cambridge Springs Defense. The threat

is now 8.Nb3 driving away the Queen

Alekhine-Capablanca 1927 but remains unclear.

bring a Rook into play while automatically un-pinning the Knight.

except a4. Also possible is a forthcomingf4. But all this is unclear and that castling is impossible now.

N5,C,39

dead for the last four hundred years!).

Variation (for the N.Y. boys).

and heading for c5.

so it seems that Forgacs is confused.