

Table menu

If the active window contains a table view, the toolbar will include a “Table menu”. This menu is used to select from a list of predefined table formats. When you select a table format from this menu, the columns in the table changes according to this format.

Different views have different table menus. Thus, there are specialized table menus for “Node tables”, “Edge tables” and “Data file tables”.