To move an object into a folder is easy: Just drag and drop it onto the folder. Release the mouse button when the folder becomes hilited.

Note, however, that this method works only for objects located in the same window as the folder itself. DynRisk does not allow you to drag objects from one window to another. As soon as you reach the border of the window, further movements are restricted. Instead the window starts to autoscroll.