Windows Grep v1.6 release notes

Fisrtly, let me thank you for taking the time to evaluate Windows Grep. I think you will find it worthwhile.

Windows Grep is a text search utility modelled on the UNIX utility of the same name. It is particularly useful as a programmer's tool for searching program source files for specific variables or function calls. This version also searches any type of binary file, such as word-processor, database and spreadsheet files.

The Windows help file gives detailed information about using it.

INSTALLING WINDOWS GREP

Installation is performed using the supplied setup program. The files are compressed, so they cannot simply be copied onto your hard disk.

If you received it on floppy disk, execute A:SETUP.EXE on the disk using File|Run from the Program Manager menu.

If you downloaded it from a BBS in a ZIP archive, unzip it to a temporary directory and execute SETUP.EXE using File|Run from the Program Manager menu.

The file CTL3D.DLL will be copied to your windows\system directory if you have an earlier version than that supplied. All others will be put in whatever directory you specify. After the first use, an INI file, WGREP.INI, will be created on your windows directory.

THE GREP DLL

The regular expression compiler and parser is implemented in a Shareware DLL written by Chris Roberts. For further information about using it in your own programs, please contact Chris at the following address:

The registration fee will license one copy for use on any one computer at any one time. Site Licence arrangements may be made by contacting Huw Millington.

Any person or organisation wanting to distribute Windows Grep for profit must first contact Huw Millington at the address above for authorisation.
