REGISTRATION INFORMATION

Baseball Scout is distributed to you (the public) from us (the FRS dudes) through Shareware distribution mechanisms. Baseball Scout is copyrighted software which means you have a 45 day trial period to determine whether you want to keep Baseball Scout (and pay for the software) or test out your new wastebasket program with it. Should you decide to keep Baseball Scout on your machine, you are obligated by law to pay us some cashola.

This version of Baseball Scout is not "crippled." All functionality designed for the first version is included without having to know any secret passwords or voodoo incantations. However, we have included a "Please Register..." message which will appear at a frequency depending on how long you have run the application. The longer you run Baseball Scout, the less time between registration reminders. If you register the software, we will send you a nag-free registered version of Baseball Scout.

You can also get a league license for Baseball Scout for up to 20 teams which allows one registered copy of Baseball Scout to be run simultaneously on up to 20 different PCs (by 20 different team managers).

Please pass copies of Baseball Scout to anyone you wish -- the more users, the better our cash flow. If you have any suggestions on how to make Baseball Scout a better program, we would love to hear them. Write us at:
