ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

It may seem strange to thank your parents first and foremost in a cocktail book, but I have to thank mine—Billy and Estelle Parker. Because I was an only child, I always got to tag along with my dad and mom on business trips around the country. These often occurred in swanky restaurants in the heyday of disco—the 1970s. While the food was delicious, the business conversations were dull for a kid. The flashing lights and glittery bottles of the adjoining bars, on the other hand, fascinated me, and I fell in love with bars and mixing at an early age. Later in life, when I realized I needed a trade to fall back on in case journalism failed, my dad sent me to bartending school. So thanks, Mom and Dad.

I'd also like to thank the numerous friends and colleagues who sent me ideas for drinks for this collection. In no particular order: Lucy Tallon, cocktail goddess extraordinaire of London and Africa; Stephanie Owen, vintage cocktail archivist; Stephanie Caruthers, creator of the most unique cocktail thus far in the twenty-first century; Alex Heard, long-time editor who knows a good Southern cocktail; and Wanda Stone and Kathy Williams, keepers of the cookbooks.

A special thanks to the person who keeps me on track for all projects, my agent, Erin Reel—Los Angeles superbabe and visionary who listens carefully and makes wise decisions about the future and direction of my work.

Most of all to Wonder twin Glen Hooks who went beyond the call of duty to help with this book. As always, he offered unwavering support, silly laughter (especially when I was drowning in thousands of cocktail recipes at an ungodly hour of the night), keen insight, sage advice, and the desperately needed push (with plenty of Starbucks coffee) to make sure this book was born.

INTRODUCTION—

Set-ups

No argument: cocktails are sexy and sophisticated. They sparkle with mysterious possibilities. Imagine a night in a neon-lit club. A handsome man spots a gorgeous woman. He sends a drink over. She wonders: who is this good-looking man who just bought me a Cosmopolitan? He wonders: if I buy her two, will she go back to my place? After three, will she still be standing?

Endless seduction lingers in a cocktail glass regardless of season or setting. The beauty of a cold clear martini, a glass of perfect red sangria, or a sparkling vintage concoction transformed into a twenty-first century incarnation is liquid anticipation. For some, the thrill is in the warmth that comes with downing one of these potables. For others, it's all in the shake, stir, or blend.

When I was four, I toddled into a bar adjoined to a restaurant owned by my parents' friend. Instantly, I was hooked, not by the darkness of the joint or the local television celebs who frequented the place, but by the jewels behind the bar. The bottles of amber and emerald, sapphire and ruby hypnotized me. I had never seen anything more beautiful.

The fascination continued through my teens. Whenever I dined out, a Shirley Temple was a must. My dad preferred scotch and water; my mother straight water. Curiosity about how liquor tasted was never my game; the life of a barfly was hardly appealing. No, I wanted to mix. Let me behind the bar and I'd whip up a concoction to rival any.

Eventually bartending school beckoned as a wacky adventure I longed to have, and I mixed to my heart's content. Mixology is certainly a handy trade to have at parties to win friends and influence people. And practice does, indeed, make perfect.

It's impossible to learn all the drinks in the world. Literally thousands exist and more are created every day along with new liqueurs—some even appear to glow in the dark. Certainly, in the early part of the twentieth century, a mixer would have better luck learning all the cocktails than he or she would today. Mixologists often named cocktails after the hotel or bar that birthed them or for the patron who desired them. Cocktails such as the Daiquiri and the Mojito became famous in other countries and found their way to popularity in the United States. In today's fast-paced world of starlets and playboys jetting around the globe, the international cocktail is no longer so easy to define.

But a good drink is. Whether it's a Bloody Mary before noon, a non-alcoholic Safe Sex on the Beach after a sweaty workout, or a Garza's nightcap at bedtime, a well-made drink can be exhilarating, like, well, sex. And, depending on the category, just as complicated. Take tropical drinks, which are built with various kinds of rum and juices to get that island feel. But the classic drinks, the ones that have stayed through the decades from Sinatra to Sting, often only have two ingredients, but they are no less for it.

In the end, drinking—like wardrobes and lovers—comes down to personal taste. You can wear the most popular fashions, but that isn't nearly as much fun as finding your own style or yes, your own cocktail. That's where this book comes in. Use it to try something new and unexpected. Maybe, after a healthy amount of sampling, you'll find that you really do like the same kind of martinis your friends, or even your dear old dad, like. Or you may simply be happy to stick with the frozen daiquiri you loved in college. With a little courage and experimentation, though, you might just find your drink of choice is something else entirely.

So explore the liquor store. Buy something exotic. Begin mixing. Expect a whole new world of adventure to open up. And remember this toast: may your enemies be lethargic and your lovers energetic.

Publisher's Note: This book and the recipes contained herein are intended for those of a legal drinking age. Please drink responsibly and ensure you and your guests have a designated driver when consuming alcoholic beverages.

GLOSSARY

MIXOLOGY

Build: When ingredients are poured into the glass in which the cocktail will be served. The ingredients are floated on top of each other. Sometimes a swizzle stick is used, allowing the ingredients to be mixed.

Float: The final ingredient of a drink is added by pouring on top, over the back of a mixing spoon.

Puree: A smooth mixture usually obtained by blending and then passing through the sieve.

Muddle: When ingredients are crushed with a pestle in a muddler in order to extract the most flavor from fruit or mint garnishes.

Shake: Firmly grabbing cocktail shaker and aggressively shaking it about a dozen times to fully mix the ingredients. Shaken drinks will be cloudier but more thoroughly mixed and colder.

Stir: Pour ingredients into a shaker or mixing glass full of ice and stir with a long twist-stemmed bar-spoon at least six times in 360 degree complete rotations. Strain the drink into a cocktail glass and leave the “used” ice in the mixing glass.

INGREDIENTS

Absinthe: Now illegal in the United States, a redistilled alcohol with an anise taste that contains wormwood; absinthe substitutes will suffice in place of the real deal. (See Pastis.)

Aquavit: A Scandinavian caraway-infused spirit.

Advokaat: An eggnog liqueur popular in Holland.

Amaretto: An almond-flavored liqueur made from apricot pits.

Anisette: A licorice-flavored liqueur made from anise seeds.

Apple brandy: An apple liqueur, also known as Calvados or applejack.

Apricot liqueur: A cordial made from apricot pits.

Banana liqueur: A banana liqueur also known as crème de banana.

Benedictine: A soft herbal liqueur that has been produced commercially since the 1860s by the Benedictine monks in France.

Bitters: Angostura bitters—A brand of bitter aromatic tonic used to flavor aperitifs and longer drinks. It was invented around 1825, in Venezuela, by a French doctor to fight illnesses among Bolivar’s troops.

Orange bitters: A bitter liquor made from the dried peel of unripe, sour, or bitter oranges, steeped in gin or alcohol.

Peychaud bitters: The brand name of a bitters produced in the southern United States.

Blackberry liqueur: A cordial made from blackberries.

Bourbon: A brown liqueur made from at least 51 percent corn mash with wheat or rye grains and aged for at least two years in white oak casks.

Brandy: A liquor distilled from wine or fermented fruit. Introduced to Northern Europe by Dutch Brandy products traders in the sixteenth century, the name brandy comes from the Dutch word brandewijn, meaning “burnt wine.”

Burgundy: The unblended wines (both white and red, but mainly red) of Burgundy, France. Used in punch or in heated winter drinks.

Campari: A bright red type of orange bitters named after its Italian producer.

Chambord: A French liqueur made from small black raspberries.

Chambraise: A French liqueur made from wild strawberries.

Chartreuse (green or yellow): Green Chartreuse is the only green liqueur in the world with a completely natural color. It also comes in yellow. Only three men in the world, brothers of the Chartreuse order cloistered monks in France, know the names of the 130 plants and how to blend, distill, and age them to produce this liqueur.

Coffee liqueur: A coffee-flavored liqueur. The most popular is Mexican-produced Kahlúa.

Cointreau: An orange-flavored liqueur made from the skins of curacao oranges. The generic term is Curacao. If redistilled clear, it is triple sec.

Cognac: A fine brandy from the Cognac region of western France. All cognac is brandy but not all brandy is cognac. It is rated the best brandy in the world, smooth with a heady scent.

Cranberry liqueur: Cranberry-flavored cordial.

Crème de cacao: A chocolate-flavored liqueur that comes in light and dark varieties.

Crème de cassis: A black currant-flavored liqueur that is notable in the Kir Royale.

Cream of coconut: A coconut syrup used in tropical drinks especially Piña Coladas.

Crème de menthe: A mint-flavored liqueur that comes in white or green varieties.

Crème de noyaux: An almond-flavored liqueur also known as crème de almond.

Crème de violette: A violet-flavored liqueur made with the oil of violets and vanilla.

Curacao: A delicate orange-flavored liqueur that comes in orange and blue.

Drambuie: A honeyed and herbal liqueur with a scotch malt whiskey base made on the Isle of Skye in Scotland.

Dubonnet: A vermouth from the south of France that comes in sweet (red) or less-sweet (blonde).

Fernet Branca: A bitters made of herbs, with a strong medicinal flavor that is produced in France and Italy.

Fino sherry: A very dry type of sherry.

Framboise: A raspberry-flavored liqueur that is often replaced with the more common Chambord.

Frangelico: A hazelnut-flavored liqueur produced in Italy.

Gin: An alcoholic drink distilled from malted grain and flavored with juniper berries. Invented by a Dutch chemist in the seventeenth century as a remedy, it was brought to England and developed there as a favorite liquor for the working class.

Dutch Genever gin: A type of gin of very superior quality mainly produced in the Netherlands. Its production is very similar to that of malt whisky, with juniper and flavoring added to the final product.

Gordon's gin: A famous brand of gin made in England.

Galliano: A golden Italian liqueur with an anise, licorice, and vanilla flavor.

Grand Marnier: An orange-flavored French liqueur with a brandy base.

Grappa: The name of an Italian brandy made from the stalks of grapes.

Grenadine: A pomegranate-flavored syrup with pomegranate used as flavoring and sauce.

Irish cream liqueur: A liqueur made with Irish whiskey blended with fresh cream, spirits, and a little chocolate. The most popular is Bailey's Irish Cream.

Kirsch: A white brandy distilled from cherries and usually aged in a paraffin lined cask to prevent it from taking on the color of the wood. Also known as cherry schnapps.

Licor 43: A sweet, bright yellow citrus and vanilla-flavored Spanish liqueur made from a combination of forty-three ingredients, including citrus and fruit juices, herbs, spices, and vanilla.

Lillet: A sweet French aperitif wine containing quinine and spices in two varieties: sweet (red) and less-sweet (blonde).

Madeira: A specific Portuguese sweet fortified wine.

Malibu: A coconut rum liqueur.

Mandarine Napoleon: A Belgian liqueur made with rare mandarines whose skins are soaked in a Cognac base.

Maraschino: A cherry-flavored clear liqueur.

Marsala: A fortified Sicilian wine (dry or sweet).

Ojen: An anise-flavored Spanish liqueur popular in New Orleans.

Orange flower water: A non-alcoholic diluted orange flower extract in water used as a mixer.

Orgeat: A non-alcoholic syrup made with almonds, orange flower water, and sometimes barley water used as a mixer.

Ouzo: An anise-flavored Greek aperitif spirit made from pressed grapes, herbs, and berries including aniseed, licorice, mint, wintergreen, fennel, and hazelnut.

Parfait Amour: A light purple curacao flavored with rose petals, vanilla, and almonds and made in France.

Pastis: An anise-flavored absinthe substitute that does not include wormwood, not to be confused with anisette. Brands include Absente, Herbsaint, Pernod, and Ricard.

Pisco: A Peruvian or Chilean unaged brandy.

Punsch: A rum-based liqueur with a spicy sweet flavor.

Rose's lime juice: A famous brand name for concentrated lime juice.

Rum: A liquor made from fermented and distilled molasses. Light rums are usually produced in Puerto Rico, Barbados, and Cuba and do not age for very long. Dark rums come mostly from Jamaica, Martinique, and Haiti and can mature from three to twelve years. The color of rum is due to the aging process.

Sabre: An orange liqueur with a hint of chocolate produced in Israel.

Sake: Japanese wines made from rice, spring or mountain water, yeast, and a fungus known as Koji mold.

Sambuca: A popular Italian licorice-flavored liqueur with an infusion of elderberry. Sambuca is similar to anisette but with a higher alcohol content. Black sambuca is similar but opaque black in color.

Sangria: A beverage originating from Spain made with red wine, sugar, and fruits, and garnished with fresh fruits and berries.

Scotch: A term used to designate whisky made in Scotland.

Schnapps: Another name for spirit, usually implying quite a strong alcohol content.

Sloe gin: A berry-plum liqueur made from sloe berries steeped in gin.

Sour Mix: A mixture of lemon juice and sugar syrup. Also called sweet and sour mix or bar mix.

Southern Comfort: A blend of bourbon, orange, and peach liqueur.

Strega: A delicate, mild, and colorless herbal Italian liqueur.

Tequila: A spirit that is only produced in two regions of Mexico and that is made with a minimum of 51 percent distilled blue agave sap.

Tia Maria: A coffee-flavored, rum-based Jamaican liqueur.

Tonic: A tall drink made with ice, spirits, and tonic water.

Triple sec: An orange-flavored clear liqueur similar to Cointreau. Known in nineteenth century as “white curacao.”

Vermouth: French or French-style dry fortified wine and herb aperitif. The two most common types are: sweet red and Italian, and dry white and French.

Vodka: A clear alcoholic spirit made from grain that originated in Russia.

Whiskey: Blended whiskey—Whiskey produced from a combination of whiskeys and/or neutral spirits containing at least 20 percent straight whiskey.

Canadian whiskey: A whiskey mainly made of rye, usually lighter-bodied than American whiskeys. It usually matures in oak casks for five years, but can be bottled at two years.

Irish whiskey: A whiskey made from malted cereals, barley, water, and yeast. It is passed through the still three times (creating a high alcohol level), blended, and aged minimum five years in used Sherry casks.

Jack Daniels: A sour mash whiskey made in Tennessee.

Jim Beam Bourbon whiskey: The name of a sour mash bourbon made in Kentucky.

Rye whiskey: A whiskey made from a mash that contains a minimum of 51 percent rye, and is aged in new oak barrels.

Tennessee whiskey: A smoky sweet type of whisky that is produced like Bourbon, but is mellowed before being stocked in barrels. It is considered by law as a separate category of whiskey.

Yukon Jack: A Canadian-whiskey-based liqueur with citrus and herb flavors.

TYPES OF DRINKS

Aperitif: An alcoholic drink taken before a meal or any of several wines and bitters.

Collins: A tall drink made typically with gin or vodka, sour mix, and club soda.

Cooler: A drink made with ginger ale, club soda, and a fresh spiral or twist of citrus fruit rind, served in a collins or highball glass.

Cordial: Sweetened spirits. The same as liqueurs.

Fix: A sour drink that usually includes pineapple juice and crushed ice.

Fizz: Very similar to a Collins but made with sour mix, sugar, and club soda; often includes an egg.

Flip: A chilled, creamy drink made of eggs, sugar, and a wine or spirit.

Frappe: A partially frozen, often fruity drink, that is usually a mixture of ingredients served over a mound of crushed ice.

Highball: Any spirit served with ice and club soda in a medium to tall glass (often a highball glass).

Julep: A traditionally Southern spirited drink made with fresh mint muddled with sugar, bourbon, and plenty of crushed ice. It's served in an iced silver or pewter mug.

Lowball: A short drink made of spirits served with ice, water, or soda in a small glass.

Mist: Liquor served over a glass filled with crushed ice, often a way of serving liqueur as an after dinner drink.

Nightcap: A spirited drink taken at bedtime.

Pousse Café: A drink made by floating one ingredient on top of another.

Punch: A party-size beverage consisting of fruit, fruit juices, flavorings and sweeteners, soft drinks, and a wine or liquor base.

Rickey: A drink made with a liquor, usually gin, a half lime, and club soda. It is sometimes sweetened, and often served with ice in a rickey glass.

Shooter: A straight shot of whiskey or other kind of spirit taken neat. Also the name for drinks made using various liquors served in a shooter glass without ice.

Sour: A short drink consisting of liquor, lemon/lime juice, and sugar.

Toddy: A sweetened drink of liquor, hot water, and spices.

Virgin: A non-alcoholic drink.

GLASSWARE

Beer mug: A glass with an handle that holds 12 to 16 ounces that is typically used to serve beer, but may be used for frozen margaritas and Bloody Marys.

Brandy snifter: A round balloon on a short stem with a lot of room for swirling that can hold 3, 6, or 12 ounces depending on the size that is used for straight brandy.

Champagne flute: A long slender glass with a stem that replaced the champagne saucer in the 1970s because of its ability to hold effervescent champagne bubbles longer. A similar design is the champagne tulip.

Champagne saucer: The classic round champagne container with either a solid or hollow stem. Legend says it takes its shape from Marie Antoinette's breast.

Cocktail: The classic V-shaped glass associated with cocktail culture holds 4 1/2 ounces and is extremely similar to the famous martini glass.

Collins: A tall 12-ounce glass named for an 1880s London waiter that is associated with the family of Collins drinks and is also used for a variety of tall drinks.

Delmonico: A 5-ounce glass used for drinks containing sparkling water like fizzes. Typically known as a breakfast juice glass.

Double rocks: A 12-14 ounce old-fashioned glass used typically for drinks with heavy liquors.

Highball: An 8-12 ounce glass similar to a collins glass used for most standard mixed drinks.

Hurricane: A 22-ounce glass in the shape of a hurricane lamp. It was created to serve the classic Hurricane at Pat O'Brien's in New Orleans but is now used for other tropical or frozen drinks as well.

Martini: A V-shaped glass that is similar to the cocktail glass design but only holds 4 ounces.

Old-fashioned: A small squat glass with a thick base also known as a rocks glass or a lowball that is used for 6-ounce drinks "on the rocks" (with ice). It is also used for straight liquor if shot glasses aren't available.

Parfait: A specialty glass anywhere from 4 to 7 ounces that is used for drinks that contain liqueurs, ice cream, and fruit.

Pilsner: A tall glass that holds around 14 ounces and is typically used for beer but is also occasionally used for various mixed drinks.

Pony: A small liqueur glass that traditionally holds 2 ounces.

Pousse café: A narrow, tall 1-ounce liqueur glass used to layer “floated” drinks with the heaviest liqueur on the bottom and the lowest density liqueur floating on top.

Sherry: A 2-ounce stemmed glass used for sherry but in the nineteenth century it was commonly used as a wine glass.

Shot: A small and compact glass with a standard size of 1 ounce, which is also called a jigger that can be used to measure ingredients, hold one liquor, or serve mixed shooters. A long shot holds 2 ounces.

Sour: A classic 4-ounce small stemmed glass, narrow at the stem and tapering out to a wider lip used for drinks like whiskey sours. These days, sours are served in Delmonico glasses but are more classic in this original glass.

Wine (Red): Commonly called a balloon wine glass, this stemmed glass holds about 12 ounces and is used for red wine cocktails and sangria.

White: An 8-ounce oblong, slightly tapered wine glass used for white wine.

Zombie: A narrow, sleek tall glass, frosted or clear, that is used for the Zombie and other tropical drinks.

BREAKFAST AND BRUNCH COCKTAILS—

The All-Night Party Crowd's Eye-Openers

Leather-clad rock-and-rollers, the sequined jet set, even seer-sucker wearing Southerners who still fancy plantation lifestyle bask in sleeping late and discovering a cocktail awaiting them at brunch. For sleepy-eyed morning haters, a nip or two—just so the boss can't smell—in the juice offers the jazzy jolt needed to embrace stark sunlight. Weekend pajama-happy rebels play naughty by downing a fizzy cocktail before noon on a lazy Sunday morning while diving into the newspaper. Then consider pool parties in the Hamptons or country club bridal brunches where a cocktail is just what the bartender ordered. Whether spicy or fizzy, breakfast cocktails jump-start the day with a boisterous bang.

1. BLOODY MARY

Say Bloody Mary three times before bedtime. When you wake up in the morning, be sure to have one.

1 1/2 ounces vodka (or peppered vodka for spice)

3 ounces tomato juice

1/2 ounce lemon juice

Dash or two Tabasco sauce

Dash or two Worcestershire sauce

Pinch of celery salt

Pinch of pepper

Dab of horseradish

1. Chill a cocktail shaker.
2. Add vodka, tomato juice, lemon juice, Tabasco sauce, and Worcestershire sauce.
3. Add salt, pepper, and horseradish to taste.
4. Pour into a chilled collins glass or beer mug.
5. Garnish with a lime slice or a celery stalk. Also preferred as garnishes: pickled green beans, okra pods, and garlic stuffed olives.

(See page 52 for original Bloody Mary mix.)

2. PEACH FUZZ

Soft and downy, the perfect serum for getting the dish on your brother's bride.

3 ripened peaches
6 ounces pink lemonade
6 ounces vodka
Ice cubes to fill blender

1. Put peaches, pink lemonade, vodka, and ice in a blender.
2. Blend until iced is crushed.
3. Place in freezer for four hours.
4. Scoop into highball glasses.
(Serves 6)

3. VODKA MINT

Caution: An oft-used tool for sweet-faced motherly interrogators.

6 ounces frozen limeade
6 ounces vodka
17 mint leaves

1. Combine limeade, vodka, and mint leaves with enough ice to fill blender.
2. Blend at highest speed until slushy. Pour into cocktail glasses.
4. Top with thin slices of lime and mint leaves.
(Serves 4)

4. BLOODY BULL

For the morning after. Solves problems from last night's out-of-control bachelorette party.

10 1/2 ounces consommé
24 ounces tomato juice
3 tablespoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon celery salt
1 teaspoon garlic salt
2 teaspoons salt
9 ounces vodka

1. Mix all ingredients in a pitcher.
 2. Serve in highball glasses with ice.
- (Serves 6)

5. MILK PUNCH

A truly old-school beverage—served at weddings and brunches through the decades.

8 ounces cold milk
1/2 ounce bourbon
3/4 ounce crème de cacao

1. Fill cocktail shaker with ice.
2. Add milk, bourbon, and crème de cacao.
3. Shake.
4. Pour into a goblet.

6. COFFEE FLIP

Wow. This makes the cobwebs run screaming.

1 ounce cognac
1 ounce tawny port
1 small egg
1 teaspoon sugar

1. Fill cocktail shaker with ice.
2. Add cognac, port, egg, and sugar.
3. Shake.
4. Strain into a chilled delmonico glass.
5. Dust with nutmeg.

7. BRANDIED FLIP

Tastes so good you'll do cartwheels and somersaults until four.

1 ounce brandy
1 ounce apricot flavored brandy
1 small egg
1 teaspoon sugar

1. Fill cocktail shaker with ice.
2. Add brandies, egg, and sugar.
3. Shake.
4. Strain into a chilled delmonico glass.
5. Dust with nutmeg.

8. MADEIRA MINT FLIP

Another Madeira, my dear-a?

1 1/2 ounces Madeira
1 ounce chocolate mint liqueur
1 small egg
1 teaspoon sugar

1. Fill cocktail shaker with ice.
2. Add Madeira, liqueur, egg, and sugar.
3. Shake.
4. Strain into a chilled delmonico glass.
5. Dust with nutmeg.

9. POLYNESIAN PICK ME UP

*No, this does not involve carting a virgin off to the volcano.
Your fate is much more pleasant.*

4 ounces pineapple juice
1 1/2 ounces vodka
1/2 teaspoon curry powder
1/2 teaspoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon cream
2 dashes Tabasco sauce
4 ounces crushed ice

1. Pour all ingredients into a blender.
2. Blend for 10 seconds on high speed.
3. Pour into a chilled old-fashioned glass.
4. Dust with cayenne pepper.

10. CITRONELLA COOLER

For a guaranteed mosquito-free brunch.

1 ounce citrus vodka
Dash of lime juice
2 ounces chilled lemonade
1 ounce chilled cranberry juice

1. Build vodka, lime juice, lemonade, and cranberry juice in a collins glass.
2. Top with a squeeze of fresh lime.

11. MAY BLOSSOM FIZZ

As sweetly intoxicating as springtime flowers. Your guests just may frolic around the May Pole.

1 teaspoon grenadine
1/2 ounce lemon juice
1 ounce club soda
2 ounces Punsch

1. Fill cocktail shaker with ice.
2. Add grenadine, lemon juice, club soda, and Punsch.
3. Shake.
4. Strain into an old-fashioned glass.
5. Top with soda.

12. SANGRIA

Perfect setting: pitcher for two, Melrose Avenue, a night of endless possibilities.

1/5 dry red wine
1 ripe peach
6 slices lemon
1/2 ounce cognac
1 ounce triple sec
1 ounce maraschino liqueur
1 tablespoon sugar
1 whole orange
6 ounces chilled club soda

1. Pour wine into a glass pitcher.
2. Add peeled and sliced peach and lemon slices.
3. Add cognac, triple sec, maraschino liqueur, and sugar.
4. Stir to dissolve sugar.
5. Carefully place the orange in the pitcher. (See below.)
6. Let mixture marinate at room temperature for at least 1 hour.
7. Add soda and 1 tray of ice cubes to pitcher.
8. Stir.
9. Pour into wine goblets.

(Serves 6)

(For orange: cut orange peel into one long strip, beginning at stem end and continuing until spiral reaches bottom of fruit. Make sure to expose the fruit while cutting. Leave peel attached to orange bottom to suspend fruit in pitcher.)

13. MEXICAN WEDDING BREAKFAST COCKTAIL

Goes well with huevos rancheros and a blushing bridal afterglow.

1 1/2 ounces sherry
1 egg
1 teaspoon powdered sugar
Drop of Tabasco sauce or dash of cayenne pepper

CHAMPAGNE CONCOCTIONS—

Park Avenue Potions

Coler Porter said, “I get no kick from champagne.” But what did he know? Champagne fizzes with dizzying expectations and golden giddiness. Put simply: champagne makes people happy. Often associated with the beautiful and famous, champagne cocktails can be decadently expensive and devilishly delightful, especially when mixed with lavish liqueurs. So get the party started with a little champagne. Even if it’s not a vintage Rothschild, bubbly inevitably transforms the most humdrum Herbert or Harriet into a shooting star.

194. CLASSIC CHAMPAGNE COCKTAIL

Dorothy Parker said it best: “Three be the things I shall attain: envy, content, and sufficient champagne.”

1 sugar cube
2 dashes Angostura bitters
Chilled champagne

1. Place sugar and bitters in a chilled champagne flute.
2. Top with champagne.
3. Garnish with a lemon peel.

195. CHAMPAGNE CORNUCOPIA

Forget the flute, pass the horn of plenty. Make that plenty of bubbly.

1 ounce cranberry juice
2 scoops rainbow sherbet
1 ounce vodka
3/4 ounce peach schnapps
1 ounce champagne

1. Pour cranberry juice into an oversized red wine glass.
2. Pour rainbow sherbet, vodka, and peach schnapps into a blender.
3. Blend until smooth.
4. Pour mixture over cranberry juice.
5. Layer champagne on top.
6. Garnish with an orange slice.

MARTINI MADNESS—

Bond and Babe Drinks

Before Bradshaw, Carrie Bradshaw, there was Bond, James Bond, asking for his chosen drink, shaken not stirred. Smooth and suave, not to mention sexy as sin, James Bond was the quintessential martini drinker; in his first twenty films, the super spy drank eighteen. Bond owned the drink until a sex writer from Manhattan wooed the young and hip masses with fruitful neon twists on the classic. Soon, Sex and the City wannabees were teetering in expensive stilettos and ordering designer 'tinis in sleek bars from coast to coast. If ever a cocktail personified sex and status, it's the martini in all of its glorious renditions from past to present.

288. ORIGINAL MARTINI

Simple, classic, elegant. Your dad definitely wants one. Make it a double.

1 1/2 ounces gin
Dry vermouth to taste

1. Fill cocktail shaker with ice.
2. Add gin and vermouth.
3. Stir.
4. Strain into a martini glass.
5. Garnish with an olive.

289. VESPER MARTINI

Fear not, noble churchgoer—this is not a mischievous addition to your church potluck, but a libation that pays homage to James Bond's leggy love interest in Casino Royale.

3 ounces gin
1 ounce vodka
1/2 ounce Lillet blonde

1. Fill cocktail shaker with ice.
2. Add gin, vodka, and Lillet blonde.
3. Shake.

AFTER DINNER DREAMS—

Turn Your Lamp Down Low

Candles twinkle in a plush den. The smooth Reverend Al Green plays on the stereo. Hey, don't pull out the tequila. No way. That's not the liquor of choice after a romantic meal or on a rainy Sunday night after a most pleasurable weekend. Lay back and relax some more. Think romance. Think seduction. Oh yeah, that's it. Now you're talking. A Brandy Alexander. Delish. A Grasshopper? Creamy green devils sure to make you lose your mind. A Golden Cadillac? Is that what you drive? Silly me, you mean the drink. I'll take one. Then another. If you're lucky.

SHOTS AND SLAMMERS FOR THE PERPETUAL 21-YEAR-OLD—

Sorority and Fraternity Fantasia

Admit it. You'd order a shot called a Blow Job in college and snicker about it for days. Even brag about it. You know you would. But would you order that drink when you were thirty-five? Only if you were in the midst of a midlife crisis, craving a college-aged cutie, and a red sports car. We can't promise you the car or the girl, but, no question, these shots and slammers will send you down memory lane. Some of them flame. Literally. Some even wiggle, thanks to Jell-O. Down a couple—or four—with lethal names like Kamikaze and Alien Secretion, and you'll rocket to Mars faster than anything NASA could invent. Remember to buckle up!

662. MAD HATTER

If Lewis Carroll was drinking this while writing, it explains everything.

1 ounce vodka
1 ounce peach schnapps
1 ounce lemonade
1 ounce cola

1. Fill a cocktail mixer with ice.
2. Add vodka, peach schnapps, lemonade, and cola.
3. Shake.
4. Strain into a shot glass.

663. MAD SCIENTIST

It's alive, it's alive! A great one to whip up in the laboratory for that special...specimen.

3/4 ounce blueberry schnapps

3/4 ounce raspberry schnapps

Grenadine

Irish cream liqueur

1. Add blueberry and raspberry schnapps to a shot glass.
2. Slowly top with grenadine.

Fun party game: Make one shot, quickdraw for it with your nemesis.

1/3 ounce vodka

2/3 ounce gold tequila

1/3 ounce Passoa

1. Layer into a shot glass in order.

665. MORANGUITO

Be enamored of any drink that combines the twin evils, er, “joys,” of absinthe and tequila.

2/3 ounce absinthe
2/3 ounce tequila
1/3 ounce grenadine

1. Layer the ingredients in a shot glass.

666. RATTLESNAKE RECIPE

Truth be told, it's more scared of you than you are of it.

1/2 ounce Irish cream liqueur
1/2 ounce coffee liqueur
1/2 ounce crème de cacao

1. Carefully layer into a shot glass or test tube.

667. SANGRITA

New England and Mexico...two great tastes that taste great together.

1 ounce gold tequila
1 ounce Clamato juice
Tabasco sauce
Dash of Worcestershire sauce

1. Fill one shot glass with tequila.
2. Fill second shot glass with Clamato juice
3. Add two drops Tabasco and Worcestershire sauce.
4. Shoot the tequila.
5. Chase it with the second shot.

668. SMARTY

Sweet as a mother's love.

1 ounce amaretto
1 ounce Southern Comfort
1 ounce blackberry brandy
1/2 ounce sour mix

1. Fill a cocktail mixer with ice.
2. Add amaretto, Southern Comfort, blackberry brandy, and sour mix.
3. Shake.
4. Strain into a shot glass.

669. SOLARIS

Spicy and sweet, like a pirate with a heart of gold.

3/4 ounce spiced rum
3/4 ounce grenadine
1 teaspoon sugar

1. Measure the parts so the shot glass is 2/3 full.
2. Skim sugar on top.
3. Stir slightly.

670. SOUTHERN BONDAGE

This one will have you tied up in knots. But in a good way.

1/4 ounce Southern Comfort

1/4 ounce Amarula cream liqueur
Dash cream

1. Pour crème de menthe into a cordial glass.
2. Gently layer Amarula cream liqueur.
3. Add a thin layer of cream.

672. STARDUST

Surely created by a hippie mixologist inside the lime green VW van, named in honor of his soul mate.

1/2 ounce citrus vodka
1/2 ounce peach schnapps
1/2 ounce blue curacao
1 ounce sour mix
1 ounce pineapple juice
1 splash grenadine

1. Fill a cocktail mixer with ice.

An unusual concoction that shoots back but leaves a sweet aftertaste.

1/4 ounce Irish cream liqueur

1/4 ounce scotch whiskey

1/4 ounce tequila

1/4 ounce Galliano

1. Pour Irish cream liqueur, scotch whiskey, tequila, and Galliano into a shot glass.
2. Stir.

675. THE PERNOD DEMON

France and Switzerland banned Pernod (and true absinthe) for part of the early twentieth century, fearing its hallucinogenic effects. Bottoms up, you madmen.

1 lemon wedge
Sugar
6 dashes Tabasco sauce
1 1/2 ounces Pernod

1. Coat the lemon wedge with sugar.
2. Add dashes of Tabasco sauce to lemon.
3. Suck the lemon.
4. Shoot the Pernod.

676. TROPICAL PASSION

One might think that “passion” and “shots” are polar opposites. Think again, pal. Nothing says romance like a fruity shooter.

1/2 ounce peach schnapps
1/2 ounce rum
1/2 ounce sloe gin
1/2 ounce triple sec
Splash of orange juice

1. Fill a cocktail mixer with ice.
2. Add peach schnapps, rum, sloe gin, triple sec, and orange juice.

Dash cranberry juice

1. Fill a cocktail mixer with ice.
2. Add curacao, vodka, melon liqueur, and juices.
3. Shake.
4. Strain into a shot glass.

686. MEMPHIS BELLE

As reliable as the World War II B17 for which this drink is named, and much more tolerable than the film version.

3/4 ounce Southern Comfort
3/4 ounce Irish cream liqueur

1. Fill a cocktail mixer with ice.
2. Add Southern Comfort and Irish cream liqueur.
3. Shake.
4. Strain into a shot glass.

1. Fill a cocktail mixer with ice.
2. Add melon liqueur, citrus vodka, coconut flavored rum, and sour mix.
3. Shake.
4. Strain into a shot glass.

688. SKIP AND GO NAKED

While weary students have been operating under this philosophy for years, your version is much less drafty.

1 ounce gin
Dash grenadine
Splash sour mix
Splash draft beer

1. Fill a cocktail mixer with ice.
2. Add gin, grenadine, sour mix, and beer.
3. Shake.
4. Strain into a shot glass.

689. ESKIMO KISS

Be warned: Rubbing noses over this sweet delight may melt even the sturdiest igloo.

1/2 ounce Swiss chocolate liqueur
1/2 ounce cherry brandy
1/2 ounce amaretto

1. Fill a cocktail mixer with ice.
2. Add Swiss chocolate liqueur, cherry brandy, and amaretto.
3. Shake.
4. Strain into a shot glass.

690. FUNKY MONKEY

Official drink of Koko the Gorilla.

1/2 ounce peach schnapps
1/2 ounce coffee liqueur
1/2 ounce Irish cream liqueur

1. Fill a cocktail mixer with ice.
2. Add peach schnapps, coffee liqueur, and Irish cream liqueur.
3. Shake.
4. Strain into a shot glass.

691. ALIEN SECRETION

Trekkies: Set phasers to yum and call the mother ship.

1/2 ounce vodka
1/2 ounce melon liqueur

2. Add vodka, melon liqueur, rum, and pineapple juice.
3. Shake.
4. Strain into a shot glass.

VINTAGE COCKTAILS—

Gone but Not Forgotten

For every generation, there's a drink that raises some eyebrows. In the 1980s, it was Sex on the Beach. In the 1930s, it was Symphony of Moist Joy. Sometimes, a drink lives on through the decades and becomes a classic. Other times, a simply fantastic drink fades away only to be found in the yellowed pages of an antique cookbook collecting dust on your grandmother's shelf. Many cocktails were named after Hollywood starlets and notorious rogues who drank at popular Los Angeles haunts in the heyday of silver screen glamour. Many cocktails created before the Prohibition were certainly not for the faint of heart and included absinthe, the legendary liqueur which was later made illegal in the United States. Don't fear—absinthe substitutes remain, but heed this warning: One common theme runs through the drinks of the first half of the twentieth century—heavy on the alcohol, easy on the mixer.

692. ABSINTHE COCKTAIL

Indulge, relax, and witness the magic of wicked little green fairies dancing in your glass.

1 1/2 ounces absinthe
3/4 ounce water
1/4 ounce anisette
Dash orange bitters

1. Fill cocktail shaker with ice.
2. Add absinthe, water, anisette, and bitters.
3. Shake.
4. Strain into a cocktail glass.

693. AMARETTO ALEXANDER

A nutty nightcap for a willing pleasure victim.

1 1/2 ounces amaretto
1 1/2 ounces crème de cacao
1 1/2 ounces cream

1. Fill cocktail shaker with ice.
2. Add amaretto, crème de cacao, and cream.
3. Shake.
4. Strain into a brandy snifter.
5. Garnish with sprinkled nutmeg.

694. BLANCHE

A vintage potable for tragically flawed Southern belles.

3/4 ounce anisette
1/2 ounce Cointreau
1/2 ounce triple sec

1. Fill cocktail shaker with ice.
2. Add anisette, Cointreau, and triple sec.
3. Stir.
4. Strain into a cocktail glass.

695. BANFF

TEMPTING TIPPLES FOR FESTIVE FROLICS—

'Tis the Season

Your friend calls and insists that you throw a Fourth of July party. She suggests you serve more than beer and wine this time. The creative stakes are high but not impossible. Move beyond the traditional drinks for summer celebrations, yuletide gatherings, and even Easter events. Try a funky cocktail called The Betsy Ross for Independence Day or The Black Turncoat for a Cinco de Mayo bash. For the most romantic holiday of the year—Valentine’s Day—think outside the champagne and chocolate box. Wow your honey with a glass of Red Hot Passion or a Soul Kiss, sure to make the heart, and senses, melt. Often, traditional holidays like Christmas call for traditional drinks like eggnog and wassail, but you can add an international twist to the family feast by introducing the German “Gluhwein.” Bottoms up!

CURES WITHOUT CUSSING—

The Morning After

Lore has it that next door to the Economist offices in London is a famed and very old-fashioned chemist—D. R. Harris. The shop has a most marvelous hangover cure, which those in need can buy in a bottle or tincture, or better yet, freshly mixed right there by the chemist for a pound note. Every morning, a procession of old gents in pin-striped suits hustle up to the counter for relief. The bufferest of all old buffers. Those of us, not privy to such European remedies can make our own. All that's needed: The ability to stand and mix.

996. NATIONAL ANTHEM

British in its origin, the National Anthem cure “soon gets you on your feet,” so sayeth the Avengers’ John Steed, consummate Brit, consummate drinker, sure to know how to shake off last night’s indulgence and quickly return to saving the world.
