

Device List Pop-up Menus

The “»” in a device-list entry indicates that the device has many network names. To show them all, click on a device for about a half-second. A pop-up menu will appear that shows all the names for the device. The number in parentheses is the AppleTalk socket for that name.

Option-clicking shows version numbers for the System, Finder, and AppleTalk driver as well as the type of network connection. MacPing will also show selected MIB variables for devices that support SNMP.
