Internet Config

Black Night extensively uses Internet Config and so should you. With Internet Config, you get to set your common preferences for several applications all in the one place.

With Internet Config, you can set up what to do with Downloaded Files, tell me what's your favourite Text Editor, and even tell me your Name, Email Address and Signature so I can put them in the Send Menu for you.

But the really great feature with Internet Config is that you only have to enter these details once and most modern applications will read these preferences and use them as a matter of course.

Installing Internet Config

If nothing else, you should launch the Internet Config application at least once. This will establish the "Internet Preferences" file and (after asking you), will install the Internet Config Component. Taking this step will ensure that all the default file mappings and helper definitions are available to Black Night. Also, take a moment to enter your personal details.