

Using Macros

Black Night allows you to enter your user name, password and five other strings (e.g. 'go mail') as macros. Macros appear in the "Send" menu and get pasted to the terminal whenever you select one.

You enter your macros by clicking on the "Macros" button in the "Session Settings" dialog box (make sure the "Terminal" icon is selected first). The "Password" macro can be concealed. If it is concealed, then you may only send it one time per connection.

Black Night also picks up five common strings from Internet Config, and these are also available from the "Send" menu.
