

TODAY I WENT UP TO RADIO SHACK

i went behind their building and looked in their dumpster. I was looking for sensative docs like cellphone papers etc. to put in here. i didnt find any. although it was loaded with health insurance and doctors perscriptions with peoples social security#/phone#/date of birth/anything else that is private. I did not take any of it and would not publish any of it cuz that is just evill...

well i was looking through their dumpster. remote control car boxes, a lamp box, a plant, and health insurance/doctor stuff...nothing really to my interest. I closed it up and walked inside. there were three people working there, none of them seemed to have seen me in their trash. i bought an audio cord and left.

during my trek home i decided to look in blockbusters dumpster hoping to find lists on card #"s or something. They didnt have open dumpsters. they were locked up...and i didnt think it was too wise, on a monday after noon, to do picking locks and jumping fences. so i went back home....

so here i am now, documentless...ahh well....if you have/find/save something on some comp sys you broke into/work for radioshack or anything, scan in or retype or just send it to me and i'll print it and be like "your cool"...