

Thought of the month

This month I don't feel like thinking.

Here's an old "Fascinating Stuff" page I made.

I got this shit from my science textbook. The only useful piece of information in there. Pretty sad when you think about it.

To remove an ink stain from paper, mix together 5 mL of water and 5 mL of household laundry bleach. Use a toothpick to rub some lemon juice on the ink stain. Let stand one minute. then blot to remove any excess liquid from the stain. Add a bit of the bleach solution to the stain. The ink will slowly disappear. Blot and add a bit of lemon juice to restore the paper. Blot again and allow the paper to dry. The paper will look as good as new.

Painstakingly copied letter by letter, by MacMan