What, only $15!! Somebody get a net. This program began as program called ZR PhotoView which was to be a testing ground for ZR ProgramsWorks' picture viewing features. Why did it become a program in its own right? It simply got too darn good. ZIP Runner split into many programs for shareware and ZR PhotoView was one of them. It was supposed to die off after ZR ProgramWorks began but confusion reigned with too many programs starting with ZR doing too many similar things. Sysops began to think I was flooding their systems with nearly identical programs with nearly identical names. Therefore ZR PhotoView Pro is being retired and replaced by this program, PhotoShow Pro. It will still be included with REGISTERED ZR FileWorks and ZR ProgramWorks. This time around there is a registration option to register this version at only $15 (yes only $15) without receiving disks but having me giving you a code to remove the title screen and end the 4 file limit imposed on the shareware version. You can't even get a NORMAL Jpeg, Gif, etc. viewer for only $15, never mind one which can show 20 DIFFERENT PICTURES IN 20 DIFFERENT WINDOWS ALL AT THE SAME TIME. Sound like I am getting desperate for people to register, I am (and if you are waiting for the price to go any lower, reality should tell you it can't). Plus I am that confident this release will wet enough appetites for the full ZR ProgramWorks/ ZR-PC that such an offer is warranted.

New features. Built-in AAAUUE 3.0 support for UUE/MIME (Base 64) merging and decoding, SLIDE SHOWS OF OPEN FILES (no having to wait for pictures to load), load pictures by name directories, ZR7 styled icon directories or thumbnail picture Galleries, resize down to make thumbnails, print pictures ANY resolution, rotate ANY angle, pie chart shows free memory before and after loading pictures, automatic window sizing, system file editor, clock with alarm, task support + lots more.

About the version number.   The version number problems caused by the splitting of ZIP Runner into many programs is almost solved as ZRPV retires and PhotoShow Pro begins fresh at 1.0. It is not my completely my fault that this originally began as a version 6 of a fairly new program. ZR ProgramWorks alone (never mind ZR-PC) is so big and does so many different things it is hard to say just what it is (once you use this program you will see what I mean and this has only a fraction of ZR-PW in it). So I decided to release little programs showing what the ZR's can do. AAA See Size Subs and AAA UUE for ZR FileWorks Turbo's directory graphing and UUE features, ZR7 for the icon based unzipping, for example. They were new, very small and carried a version number starting with 1.0 (except ZR7 which is a working demo and currently carries no version number). With the larger programs, ZR FileWorks, ZR ProgramWorks, and ZR PhotoView something went wrong. I decided to avoid version numbers all together and say that it was part of a larger group of programs, ZR-PC. Even without the problem of letting people know about updates to the program, sysops started referring to all those programs as Version 6, which technically they are a combined version 6 of a greater ZIP Runner). So now I find myself stuck accepting ZR FileWorks as the successor to ZIP Runner at current version 6.51, and PhotoShow Pro beginning fresh with a 1.0. This only leaves ZR ProgramWorks to deal with. Since ZR ProgramWorks and ZR FileWorks were designed at the outset to work as a single program, their version numbers will remain identical to each other in the 6.5 or higher range.

Installation. ALL of the files in this package (including the main program, PHOTOSHO.EXE); must be in the same directory on the same drive as the startup directory for all functions to operate properly (only hard drives recommended for all but the disk management features which come in handy for any type of drive). The install program SETUP.EXE (included) will create a directory, copy the relevant files, and create a program group with the PhotoShow Pro program item but since it is a windows program it is best to run it from file manager. You must also have VBRUN300.DLL (if you use shareware you probably already do), and the included files the setup program will put in your \windows\system directory, KNIFE.VBX, JPEGIO.DLL, and IMK.DLL. VBRUN300.DLL is not in this package but is available on-line almost everywhere absolutely free. 2HARMONY.JPG and ZR7.JPG are sample picture files When obtained, RDX goes in any path set directory (\dos, \windows, etc.).
