US Secret Service Agent Displays Counterfeit Federal Reserve Bonds in Manila

Tue, Feb 20 2:00 AM

David Popp, a U.S. Secret Service agent, displays counterfeit Federal Reserve bond certificates during a press conference at the Philippine National Police headquarters in Manila February 20, 2001. More than $2 trillion worth of fake U.S. Federal Reserve bonds certificates were confiscated over the weekend in Cagayan de Oro, southern Philippines, along with counterfeit Argentine pesos, fake German bonds certificates and fake Japanese yen./Romeo Ranoco (Reuters)
