

BOOK WRITTEN AL GORE

Mr. Albert Gore in his book recently published, Earth in the Balance; Ecology and the Human Spirit, reveals himself as a person who believes we should have a "mother goddess" that we can worship. He points back to ancient religions and Hinduism and says that they have something god in their worship of "mother earth," and claims that our modern slogan should be the worship of "mother earth"; that man and nature are one, and that God is part of nature, and nature is part of God.

This is pure Pantheistic paganism in its truest form. He is just putting into words what the New Age Religion has been saying for a long time.

Webster's New World Dictionary defines Pantheism as The belief that God is not a personality, but that all forces, manifestations of the universe or god. the worship of all gods. Webster's Seventh New Collegiant Dictionary states Pantheism as A doctrine that equates God with the forces and laws of the universe.

(Col 2:8-10) See to it that no one takes you captive through hollow and deceptive philosophy, which depends on human tradition and the basic principles of this world rather than on Christ.

For in Christ all the fullness of the Deity lives in bodily form, and you have been given fullness in Christ, who is the head over every power and authority.

The Bible is attacked by Mr. Gore. His quote is: "Ignorant Christians who are afraid to open their minds to teachings first offered outside their own system of belief." He continues. "By refusing to accept that the earth is our sacred mother, Christians have become a dangerous threat to the survival of humanity..." Christians are, according to Mr., Gore, "...blights on the environment." He continues, "To believe in Bible prophesy is unforgivable, not only is this idea heretical, it is an appallingly, self fulfilling prophesy of doom."

These are the words of Albert Gore who claims to be a Baptist in good standing.

On pages 258 thru 259 of his book, he shows where he departed from the Baptist faith and entered in to the New Age Religion. He says "The richness and diversity of our religious tradition through out history is a spiritual resource long ignored by people of faith, who are often afraid to open their minds to teachings first offered outside their own system of belief." "This Pan-religious perspective may prove especially important where our global civilizations responsibility for the earth is concerned." "Native American Religions..." (All of which were very pagan but he's touting them here) "for instance offer a rich tapestry of ideas about our relationship to the earth." One of the most moving was attributed to Chief Seattle, who said "Will you teach your children what we have taught our children? That the earth is our mother? What befalls the earth, befalls all the sons of the earth. This we know: the earth does not belong to man, man belongs to the earth."

What he is saying here is he wants of to adopt a pan-religious perspective that will bring in other religions and mix them with Christianity so we have a pan-religious viewpoint. He advocates that we particularly be concerned with Native American Religions, all of which are very paganistic and pantheistic. That is a direct contradiction of scripture. The Bible states that the earth was created for man, not man for the earth. The Bible says that man was originally given dominion over this earth. Man lost that dominion as result of his sin. And that Jesus won that dominion back at the cross. And that when Jesus returns He will give that dominion back to those who put their love and trust in Him and man will once again exercise dominion over this earth.

Who is Chief Seattle anyway? According to April 21, 1992 issue of the New York Times, Chief Seattle is "Is probably our greatest manufactured prophet in the history of the United States." He is totally manufactured folks. But he is quoted all the time by these radical environmentalists.

According to David Berg who is writing a book on the Chief right now and he says "In an embellished version of a single speech given by the 68 year old Chief in 1854, makes him out to be an environmental prophet which he was not." According to that speech he said "The earth is our mother....." and he goes on to say "I have seen a thousand rotting buffaloes on the prairie left by the white man who shot them from a passing train."

But the interesting thing Mr. Berg said is there were no buffaloes within 500 miles of Seattle's home on Puget Sound. And more interesting is that Chief Seattle's letter is dated some 15 years before the first railroad crossed the plains from Omaha to Sacramento California. And the great buffalo slaughter took place at least a decade after Seattle died. The whole letter is a lie. The words in that letter that Gore was so moved by, were actually written by a man named Ted Perry for a 1971 environmental movie completely fictitious in nature. And yet these environmentalists have made Chief Seattle one of the Gurus of their movement.

Al Gore started out on page one of his book by asserting his pantheistic beliefs."we feel increasingly distant from our roots in the earth." ..."civilization itself has been on a journey from its foundations in the world of nature to an evermore contrived, controlled and manufactured world of our initiative and sometimes arrogant design." "At some point during this journey we lost our feeling of connectedness to the rest of nature." We dare now to wonder: Are we so unique and powerful as to be essentially separate from the earth? (page 1) This perspective cannot treat the earth as something separate human civilization....." (page 2)

Pure paganism! We are part of nature and nature is part of us? God is part of us, and God is everywhere, and everything is God?

Isaiah 42:5-6 Thus saith God the LORD, he that created the heavens, and stretched them out; he that spread forth the earth, and that which cometh out of it; he that giveth breath unto the people upon it, and spirit to them that walk therein: I the LORD have called thee in righteousness, and will hold thine hand, and will keep thee, and give thee for a covenant of the people, for a light of the Gentiles;

Isaiah 42:8 I am the LORD: that is my name: and my glory will I not give to another, neither my praise to graven images.

And He means His glory is not to be given to "mother earth."

Does Al Gore make the distinction between fundamental neo-pagan pantheism and Biblical Christianity? Yes! On pages 264 to 265 of his book, he clearly makes that distinction. "We are not used to seeing God in the world because we assume from the scientific and philosophical rules that govern us, that the physical world is made up of inanimate matter whirling in accordance to mathematical laws and bearing no relation to life, much less ourselves. Who does it feel faintly heretical to a Christian to suppose that God is in us as human beings?" Why do our children believe that the Kingdom of God is up, somewhere in the ethereal reaches of space, far removed from this planet?

"It is my own belief that the image of God can be seen in every corner of creation, even in us, but only faintly."

"By experiencing nature in its fullest...our own and that of all creation...with our senses and with our spiritual imagination, we can glimpse, "bright shining as the sun," an infinite image of God."

He is not talking here about the indwelling of the Holy Spirit. He is simply saying that God is in everything and everything is in God. It is a denial of what the Bible teaches that God is a personality separate and apart from His creation.

Further, he goes on to talk about Goddess worship.

On page 260 of his book, Mr. Gore shares his own understanding of Goddess worship.

"The spiritual sense of our place in nature predates Native American cultures; increasingly it can be traced to the origins of human civilization. A growing number of anthropologists and archaeomythologists, such as Marija Gimbutas and Riane Esler argue that the prevailing ideology of belief prehistoric Europe and much of the world was based on the worship of a single earth goddess, who was assumed to be the fount of all life and who radiated harmony among all living things. Much of the evidence for the existence of this primitive religion comes from the many thousands of artifacts uncovered in ceremonial sites. These sites are so widespread that they seem to confirm the notion that a goddess religion was ubiquitous through much of the world until the antecedents of today's religions...most of which still have a distinctly masculine orientation...swept out of India and the Near East, almost obliterating belief in the goddess. The last vestige of organized goddess worship was eliminated by Christianity as late as the fifteenth century in Lithuania."

".....and it seems obvious that a better understanding of a religious heritage preceding our own by so many thousands of years, could offer us new insights into the nature of the human experience."

Page 261 "One modern Hindu environmentalists Dr. Karan Singh, regularly sites the ancient Hindu dictum: "The earth is our mother, and we are all her children."

Al Gore is referring to Bible believing Christians when he says on page 263 "For some Christians, the prophetic vision of the apocalypse is used in my view...unforgivably..."

It is obvious that environmentalism is becoming the new religion of the world. The religion of communism is being replaced by the religion of environmentalism. The "Reds" are being replaced by the "Greens"

Mr. Gore in his book states "We must make the rescue of the environment the central organizing principal of civilization."

Mr. Gore calls for a wide bureaucratic superstructure to be imposed upon America's business. He wants to impose all kinds of environmental taxes. He wants to bring about a redistribution of wealth between countries, giving massive amounts of moneys to third world countries. He wants to shut down Americas industrial system because he sees it as simply a threat to the environment.

How we need to pay attention to what is going on today. We have a pantheistic, pagan type philosophy dominating the thinking of a Vice Presidential candidate of the United States. And all the press can do is scream bloody murder because Dan Quail wants us to return to traditional family values. How bias and suppressive the press is!

(Romans 1:18) The wrath of God is being revealed from heaven against all the godlessness and wickedness of men who suppress the truth by their wickedness,

This talks about the wrath of God. And how the wrath of God is revealed against certain types of societies. Namely those who suppress the truth and unrighteousness as we have been doing in this country in recent years, by refusing to allow the truth of the creation and the truth of the origin of man to be taught in our public schools, but teaching only godless atheistic evolution. (see Rom 1:22-32)

And it goes on to say that one of the things that brings down the wrath of God is men begin to worship the creation rather than the creator.

(Rom 1:25) They exchanged the truth of God for a lie, and worshipped and served created things rather than the Creator--who is forever praised. Amen.

Satan's religion of communism has died so he is now raising up a new religion of environmentalism in which he is going to have people worshipping the earth. Over the past 22 years since 1970, the establishment globalists have pushed down our throats more Socialism, more people control, more restrictions on free enterprise and private property in America, all in the name of environmentalism, than the Communists have been able to achieve in 75 years.

Mr. Gore actually researched and wrote this book himself. All the more reason to fear the environmental policies that may result from a Clinton Gore administration. For Al Gore the earth is on the verge of environmental apocalypse.
