This AppleScript takes the current search query from the Find window and applies it in regular intervals to the catalog. The user is prompted for the interval length. This script should be run as a "stay open" script application.