

ent Barrett

Kent is a Vancouver artist with over twenty years experience in photography. His work has been exhibited in galleries across Canada from Vancouver to St. John's, Newfoundland. He is currently working on his first nonfiction book "Bitumen to Bitmap", a history of photographic processes.

Ryan Crocker

Ryan is a Vancouver actor, writer, director, and general mouthpiece. He has worked in Vancouver, Victoria, and Los Angeles. His resume looks like a parts list for an aircraft carrier -- long and varied. He enjoys good friends, conversation, and playing with his pet iguana, Isis.

Tom Davis

Tom is a wine maker who lives and works in Vancouver, Canada. A former brewmaster, a painter and amateur (in the truest sense) film maker. Currently a Philosophy undergraduate at Simon Fraser University, Tom seeks to start his own vineyard.

Jon Gould

Jon teaches law and political science at both DePaul University's International Human Rights Law Institute and Beloit College. He is a former counsel to the Dukakis-Bentsen Campaign and has served as General Counsel to the College Democrats of America and Vote for a Change.

Anand Mani

Anand is a Vancouver, Canada-based corporate communications consultant serving an international clientele. Originally an airbrush artist, his painting equipment has been languishing in a closet, replaced by the Mac. It waits for the day when "that idea" grips him by the throat, breathily says, "Paint Me" and drags him into the studio— not to be seen for months.

Brian Quinby

Brian is a Counselor the Illinois Mathematics and Science Academy in Aurora, Illinois who has been utilizing his free time to document the lives of street children in Guatemala. His photographs have appeared in NACLA, The Boston Globe and on the AP wire and in other publications.

Dr. Michael Schreiber

32 years ago, born near Salzburg, Gemini Michael reconstructs social and business realities as self-similar competitive environments at the Department of Marketing at the Vienna University for economics and business administration.

Johnn Tan

Johnn is a Mathematics major at Weber State University in Ogden, Utah, USA. He is one of the founders of Wasatch Area Voices Express (WAVE), an alternative Ogden paper. When he isn't eating vegan food, cooking, hiking, or philosophizing, he is active in politics, socialism, and feminism.

Dr. Euan R. Taylor

Euan grew up in England where he did a degree in Biochemistry and a Ph.D. Before moving to Canada, Euan spent 6 months traveling in Asia. Now living in Winnipeg, he is doing research in plant molecular biology, and waiting to start Law School. Interests include writing, travel, studying Spanish and Chinese, career changing and good coffee. Pet peeves: weak coffee, wet socks and ironing.

Marc A. Volovic

Marc was born in 1967 in Ekaterinburg and was emmigrated perforce to Israel in 1976. Now resigned to his fate he lives in Jerusalem and studies Structural Linguistics, after a brief and inconclusive romance with Computer Science. Likes to cook and shoot.

Ian Wojtowicz

Ian is currently enrolled in the International Baccalaurate program at a Vancouver high school. His interests include fencing, running big projects (like Teletimes) and sleeping in. He was born in 1977 in Halifax. He has since lived in Nigeria, Hong Kong and Ottawa and travelled with his parents to numerous other locations.
