

Time

Time is measured in seconds, s. A modern digital stopwatch is capable of measuring time to a precision of one hundredth of a second (0.01 s). However, it is not easy to turn the stopwatch on and off with this degree of accuracy. Laboratory timers can measure milliseconds (ms), or even shorter time intervals.