Centre of gravity of irregular objects

The centre of gravity of an irregular piece of card can be found by hanging it in turn from two different pivot points. In each case, the card will eventually come to rest with its centre of gravity below the pivot, producing no turning effect. If you use a plumb-line to mark the two positions on the card with vertical lines, the centre of gravity will be the point at which the two lines cross.