

Spicy pulp regular Hugh Cave made his first appearance in SPICY DETECTIVE STORIES in the May 1936 issue, with a tale entitled "I See By the Papers." This, like all of Cave's spicy work, was by-lined Justin Case, a name which for years pulp fans had thought was a house name, but which was, in fact, limited to Cave. "I See By the Papers" was later reprinted in the March 1938 issue of another Culture pulp, PRIVATE DETECTIVE, as "Headline Bait" under the house name J.C. Cole.
