

For the second month in a row, Hugh Cave grabs the cover of SPICY MYSTERY STORIES, as his "Six Were Slain" (as by Justin Case) is featured on the February 1938 issue. Parkhurst's cover this time out featured a menace which appears to be not so much supernatural as otherworldly, foreshadowing the science fiction bent which this title would receive in two years.