

The January 1937 issue of SAUCY MOVIE TALES finds Norman Saunders illustrating the story, "New Year's Revelry" by Ernest Manning. In a move that actually happened fairly frequently, the cover was later reused for the first issue of JOLLY FOLLIES (January 1939). While Ernest Manning is a complete unknown today (as, frankly, are most of SAUCY MOVIE TALES' contributors), Doc Savage author William G. Bogart did make many appearances in SAUCY MOVIE TALES. Manning appears to have contributed only to SAUCY MOVIE TALES and SAUCY DETECTIVE, to which he was a prolific contributor, and may have been a house name.
