

When you have a question

The manufacturer of your computer arranged with Microsoft to include Microsoft software on your hard drive. The manufacturer installed the software so you could start using your computer right away. If you have any problems or questions about using the software, you should contact the computer manufacturer.

