

FaxNow!

FaxNow! Lite

This is a Lite version of FaxNow! 2.5. Many of the features have been omitted from this version but are available in the full release of FaxNow! available from RedRock Technologies Ltd.

FaxNow! upgrade.

Whats in the Full version?

FaxNow! for Networks.

FaxNow! Network Edition

About RedRock

Corporate Information

Getting Help

RedRock on the World Wide Web

Whats in the Full Version

Support for Microsoft Windows NT operating systems

Support for E-mail systems

Full on line help & search

Application Macros

Programmers API Support

FaxNow! for Networks

FaxNow! v2.5 comes into its own when shared by users across your PC network. FaxNow! will operate on virtually any network operating system. All the features of FaxNow! single user are available to network users. The major difference is that only one of your network PCs needs to act as a Fax Server. (This is a PC with a modem connected)

The FaxNow! Server can be any PC on your network. This PC does NOT have to be dedicated as the FaxNow! server so it can be used as a workstation while FaxNow! sends and receives faxes for all network users in background. You can even setup multiple FaxNow! servers for maximum fault tolerance.

FaxNow! Network edition is just as easy to install as this single user version. Adding users takes just a few seconds so FaxNow really is the easiest way to fax enable your network!

FaxNow! Network edition is available in 5, 10, 25, 50 and 100 user versions. With prices from as little as UK£295 , FaxNow! is not only the easiest way to fax enable your network, its also the most cost effective way too!

RedRock Technologies

RedRock Technologies is an exceptional UK based software company. We specialise in computer and network based facsimile software that makes it easy for any computer user to send and receive faxes directly at their PC. We have particular expertise in fax and electronic mail integration and have designed and developed some of the most advanced email-fax software in the market place to date. Our understanding of the terms Integration, Seamless, User-friendly and Quality are key to all our software products.

Our origins stem back to 1988, since then our company has grown to become the UK's leading independent provider of network facsimile systems. A company dedicated to the communications market, we provide high performance, quality solutions that are easy to use and represent excellent value for money.

We are, first and foremost, a technology based company with a clear understanding of our customers requirements. Our extensive knowledge of communications and experience of system implementation enables us to provide the very highest levels of pre-sales advice and assistance.

At RedRock Technologies, over half of the company's personnel are dedicated to development, technical support and service operations. Through many years of experience we know more about the computer facsimile market than any other company, consequently our level of re-investment in technical and support services for our customers is significant. As a result, our professional support teams have the knowledge, experience and resources to ensure our market leading technology provides our world-wide client base with the maximum return for their business.

Our software is legend in the systems facsimile market. We produce one of the fastest fax viewers and deliver one of the most reliable and easy to use phonebook modules you will find in any fax software application. Our e-mail fax integration is seamless, allowing e-mail users to literally fax documents and attachments in their native file format. We are an innovative company, but not for innovations sake. We simply listen to our customers, dealers and distributors who, after all, are the reason why we do what we do.

As a profitable organisation with a single minded focus on quality in every aspect of our business, you can rest assured that your investment in our company and our software will be a sound one.

RedRock on the World Wide Web

If you have any issue with your FaxNow software, or would like to make any comments. You will find the RedRock web site a useful resource. You will find most of the information you need and much much more on our web site at <http://www.redrock.co.uk>.

