

The superior nuchal lines pass laterally below the highest nuchal lines from the external occipital protuberance and may form a distinct crest medially. Trapezius attaches medially and sternocleidomastoid laterally.