

The inferior articular processes project inferiorly from the pediculo-laminar junctions and together with the inferior articular processes form articular pillars on each side. The inferior articular processes bear the inferior articular facets.