

The anterior tubercles are elongated anterior projections of the transverse processes that represent the lateral ends of the embryonic costal elements. Scalenus anterior attaches to the inferior surface and apex, while longus capitis attaches laterally and longus colli medially to the superior surface.