

The laminae of the lumbar vertebrae are short and broad. They pass postero-medially from the pedicle to the base of the spinous process, with some overlap of those of the inferior vertebrae.

Ligamenta flava attaches to the superior and inferior borders, and rotatores lumborum to the lateral surface and inferior border.