

The mamillary processes of the lumbarized first sacral vertebra are roughened areas located on the posterior borders of the superior articular processes.