

Interspinous ligaments are thin ligaments, which extend from the root to the apex of the superior and inferior borders of adjacent spinous processes. Anteriorly they meet the ligamentum flavum and posteriorly the supraspinous ligament.