

The inferior longitudinal band of the cruciform ligament is an inconstant longitudinal band of fibers passing from the posterior aspect of the body of C2 (axis) to the inferior border of the transverse band of the cruciform ligament (transverse ligament of the atlas), anterior to the membrana tectoria.