

The transverse processes of the first cervical vertebra (atlas) are palpable between the mastoid process and angle of the mandible.