

The articular tubercles of the sacrum form an indistinct line of tubercles or an indistinct crest approximately 2cm from the midline on either side; they end above the sacral cornua.