

The splenius capitis forms part of the floor of the posterior triangle of the neck above and behind the levator scapulae muscle. It lies under cover of trapezius inferiorly and sternocleidomastoid superiorly and can be palpated above the middle-third of the clavicle, especially when the neck is extended against resistance.